Permaculture Internship Program at the Lama Foundation Application Questionnaire

Your Thoughts

- How did you hear of the Permaculture Internship at the Lama Foundation?
- What stands out for you about this internship/ community that led you to apply?
- What in particular are you excited about learning through the internship?

Community

- Please describe your experience in community? (spiritual, intentional, familial, coop, groups, etc.) Do you have expectations about community life?

Personal Details

- What is your level of experience with farming/gardening? Circle one: beginner some experience good foundation well versed
  - Describe why you chose your particular experience level:
- What is your level of experience with permaculture?
- What special knowledge or skills do you envision bringing to the internship?
- Are you able to commit to the full duration of the internship?
- Lama Foundation is a high-altitude, rugged and remote environment. Interns are expected to camp. Do you have any special needs that may be affected by Lama's environment? Do you have physical limitations that might restrict specific activities or forms of service?

Brief Essay (Don't worry about writing skills - it's the heart that counts)

- One thing that came up quite a bit in feedback from the interns last year was the importance of communication/ interpersonal /community living skills and how they had been challenged and stretched during their time at Lama. Please describe your experience working with others. How do you get along as part of a team? Where do you think you need stretching?
- Share a little about your interests and life experiences. How do Lama and the Permaculture Internship fit into these experiences? Dreams/plans for the future?
- Briefly describe your spiritual background or attraction, if any (study, affiliation, practice, etc.)
